self-guided tours

IF YOU HAVE 1 HOUR . . .

MAIN QUAD
57th St. – 59th St.
Between University Ave. and Ellis Ave.
architecture.uchicago.edu

The centerpiece of the University of Chicago campus is without a doubt our main quadrangle. Designed in 1891 by famed Chicago architect Henry Ives Cobb, the Neo-Gothic style of the Quad lends itself to classrooms, laboratories, and libraries alike. Throughout the year, the Main Quad is the site of everything from quiet study and relaxation to the bustling Spring Convocation ceremony.

HARPER MEMORIAL LIBRARY READING ROOM
1116 E. 59th St (3rd floor)
catheylearningcenter.uchicago.edu

Housed on the third floor of the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library, the Harper Reading Room (also known as Arley D. Cathey Learning Center) is among the chief centers of academic life on campus. Underneath its barrel-vaulted ceiling, students think, study, and sleep in one of the most charming spaces on campus.

THE SEMINARY CO-OP
5751 S. Woodlawn Ave. (McGiffert House)
semcoop.com

The legendary Seminary Co-op opened 50 years ago as an independent bookstore on the University of Chicago campus and instantly became a centerpiece of Hyde Park's intellectual and cultural life. The bookstore recently moved from the basement of the labyrinthine stacks of the Chicago Theological Seminary to a new space next door to the Robie House designed by architects Stanley Tigerman and Margaret McCurry.

TIP: Visit Plein Air Café, nestled inside of the new Seminary Co-op space, for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Be sure to enjoy coffee, European-inflected comfort food, and a French atelier-inspired atmosphere.

IF YOU HAVE 4 HOURS . . .

BOTANY POND
57th St. (west of Hutchinson Court)

Located in the middle of campus, Botany Pond is the University's biodiversity hotspot, hosting a remarkable variety of animals including ducks, coy fish, four species of turtles, and a dozen species of dragonflies. For over a century, the pond has served as a tranquil outdoor study space, relaxation destination, and nexus of intellectual life on campus. As the legend goes, if a couple kisses on the bridge over Botany Pond, it is said they will get married.

ROCKEFELLER MEMORIAL CHAPEL
5850 S. Woodlawn Ave. (at E. 59th St.)
rockefeller.uchicago.edu/events

Rockefeller Memorial Chapel is a hub for ceremonies, theater, orchestral performances, chorus groups, concerts, and even circus acts. If you get a chance, make sure to walk up the 271 steps to the top of the chapel for 360 degree views of Chicago, Lake Michigan, northern Indiana and the port, the Michigan shoreline, and of course, the University itself. Visit the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel website for information on daily Carillon tours, nondenominational religious services, and mindfulness meditation workshops.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT’S ROBIE HOUSE
5757 S. Woodlawn Ave. (at E. 58th St.)
gowright.org/visit/robie-house

The purest expression of Frank Lloyd Wright’s Prairie Style architecture, Robie House was completed in 1910 and continues to be considered one of the most important buildings in the history of American architecture. Docent-led tours are available. Advance tickets are highly recommended.

IF YOU HAVE 8 HOURS . . .

REVA AND DAVID LOGAN CENTER FOR THE ARTS
915 E. 60th St. (between Ingleside Ave. and Drexel Ave.)
logancenter.uchicago.edu

One of the newest buildings on campus, the Logan Center is the new home for the arts on the UChicago campus. Designed by award winning architects Tod Williams and Billie Tsien, the 11-story building houses a performance hall, an experimental black-box theater, multimedia editing labs, unparalleled views of campus from the 10th floor DelGriorno Deck, and a café that features lunch and dinner options, wines and craft beers, and a full service espresso bar. Be sure to visit Logan’s box office for tickets and information related to campus-wide performances and events or purchases tickets online at ticketsweb.uchicago.edu.
RENAISSANCE SOCIETY
5811 S. Ellis Ave (Cobb Hall 418)
renaiessancesociety.org

Don’t be fooled by the name – the Renaissance Society is actually a contemporary art museum that presents cutting edge exhibitions, performances, films, readings, and much more. Founded in 1915 in an effort to encourage awareness of contemporary art, the Renaissance Society is one of the oldest modern art museums in the country and has displayed artists including Pablo Picasso, Diego Rivera, Mies van der Rohe, and René Magritte. Admission is free and is open 6 days a week (closed Mondays).

ORIENTAL INSTITUTE MUSEUM
1115 E. 58th St. (corner of 58th St. and University Ave.)
oi.uchicago.edu

Founded in 1919, the Oriental Institute has been one of the world’s foremost centers for Near East research for almost 100 years. Its museum holds artifacts ranging from thin ivory carvings, mummies, and some of the world’s earliest written records to a 40-ton human-headed winged bull statue out of an ancient Assyrian throne room. Upstairs, classrooms and offices continue to reform and refine our understanding of the ancient world. Admission is free with a suggested donation. Make sure to stop by the gift shop, The Suq, on your way out!

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS RESEARCH CENTER GALLERY
1100 E. 57th St. (inside the Regenstein Library)
lib.uchicago.edu

The Special Collections Research Center in the Regenstein Library is home to the University’s rare books, manuscript collections, and archives. Included are early editions of the English Bible, Austrian dramas that date to the 17th century, the printed works of composer Frédéric Chopin, and a collection of Soviet pamphlets. The Special Collections Research Center Gallery is free and open to the public.

NUCLEAR ENERGY SCULPTURE
On Ellis Avenue between 56th St. and 57th St. (just North of Mansueto Library)

The sculpture Nuclear Energy, devised by Henry Moore, commemorates the site where in 1942, underneath the former Stagg Field, Enrico Fermi and the Manhattan Project team created the world’s first nuclear reactor and carried out the first ever self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction. Theories abound on what the sculpture represents. The most common include that this sculpture is a human skull or rather, an atomic mushroom cloud.

HARPER COURT
5235 S. Harper Ct. (on 53rd between Lake Park Ave. and Harper Ave.)
www.harpercourtchicago.com

Located along one of Hyde Park’s primary retail corridors, Harper Court hosts a variety of restaurants and shops. Only recently completed, Harper Court has already begun to brighten the area with restaurants such as Native Foods, a vegan restaurant featuring chef-crafted fresh meals, a movie theater, and a Hyatt Place hotel, opening Hyde Park to the outside world.

TIP: Use the University’s new 53rd St. Shuttle to get to Harper Court quickly and easily! It departs from the Ellis Ave. parking garage every 30 minutes from 7am – 6pm, Monday – Friday.

TIP: Stop by the IDs and Privileges Office located in the Regenstein’s first floor lobby for access to the Gallery.

getting around

Getting around town is simple with these affordable transportation options. Whether you are simply going across campus or downtown to the city, the University of Chicago is a hub for efficient transportation resources.

CHICAGO TRANSIT AUTHORITY

The Chicago Transit Authority operates one of the nation’s premier public transportation systems with a large network of buses, elevated trains, and subways around the city. Trains cost $2.25 with both cash and Ventra Cards, buses $2.25 cash or $2 with Ventra. Ventra Cards are accepted on all CTA vehicles and can be purchased for $5 at all train stations or online at ventrachicago.com.

TIP: Pay before you ride! Conductors will collect a $3 surcharge for those who pay in cash once aboard the train.

The most popular Hyde Park bus routes include:

#6: JACKSON PARK EXPRESS
The #6 bus connects Hyde Park and downtown and is a good way to get to the Art Institute, Michigan Avenue, and Millennium Park. This route runs express from 47th Street to 11th Street/Museum Campus, making it one of the fastest ways to get to the Loop.

#2: HYDE PARK EXPRESS
The #2 runs between Hyde Park and the Loop on weekdays during morning and evening rush hours only. Fast, efficient, and sometimes very crowded, this bus is perfect for those headed to South Campus—the Law School, Harris, Logan, etc.

#55: GARFIELD
The #55 bus is popular for those going to the Red or Green Line train stations at Garfield or to Midway Airport.

TIP: Be sure to take a bus that says “Midway”! Some #55s end their route at “St. Louis”, still 20 blocks from Midway Airport.

CTA ON CAMPUS

The CTA also operates three buses that are free to anyone with a University of Chicago ID: routes #170, 171, 172. Each of these buses circulate students, faculty, and staff between campus and the immediate Hyde Park area, making them a convenient option for the entire University of Chicago community. Track their exact routes on the TransLoc mobile application, on monitors in designated University buildings, or online at transitchicago.com.

TIP: How long is the wait for a bus? Track it on your phone or computer at uchicago.transloc.com!

You can track UChicaGO shuttles through TransLoc on mobile applications and monitors in designated buildings. Pick-up locations can be found within two blocks of nearly every building on campus and each residence hall. Buses arrive every 20–30 minutes.

53RD STREET EXPRESS
The 53rd Street Express provides UCID holders with an efficient way to travel to the retail corridor on 53rd Street. As an express shuttle, stops are only made at certain locations including but not limited to the new Harper Court development, Kimbark Plaza, and a multitude of the on campus dormitories. Check TransLoc or transportation.uchicago.edu for a complete list of stops.

METRA COMMUTER RAIL

The Metra Electric line makes a number of stops in Hyde Park and is the fastest and easiest way to get to downtown Chicago. Trains run on a set schedule of approximately every 10 minutes during rush periods and approximately every hour otherwise. Fares from the Hyde Park area to downtown Chicago cost $3.50 and multi-use cards can be purchased at every station. Check out the schedule at metrarail.com.

DESTINATIONS
Trains run north to Museum Campus, Van Buren Street, Millennium Station/Randolph. Trains also run south to Blue Island.

HYDE PARK STOPS
Lake Park and 47th Street; 51st/53rd Street; 55th/56th/57th Street; 59th Street/University of Chicago

Hours of Operation: Daily 6 a.m. to midnight. Weekends vary.

TIP: Pay before you ride! Conductors will collect a $3 surcharge for those who pay in cash once aboard the train.

FROM CAMPUS TO THE AIRPORT

O’HARE INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT
Take any bus or Metra train downtown and catch the CTA Blue Line north to O'Hare from the Loop.

MIDWAY INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT
Take the #55 bus marked "Midway" west to the airport. Alternatively, the CTA Orange Line train runs from the Loop through Chicago’s Southwest Side before ending at Midway.

SHUTTLE SERVICE
GO Airport Express offers shared-ride airport shuttles, private vans, and airport limousines to both Midway and O’Hare International Airports. Airport Shuttle discounts are available for students. Please visit airportexpress.com to learn more.

You can find cabs in front of the Duchossois Center for Advanced Medicine at the corner of Maryland Ave. and 58th St., or you can order one online or over the phone from the companies below. Cab rides from Hyde Park run about $20-25 to downtown Chicago, $25-35 to Midway Airport, and about $60 to O'Hare Airport.

TIP: Although most taxi drivers will know where to go when you say "University of Chicago," you may want to provide one of the following key addresses: College Admissions at 1101 E. 58th St.; Administration Building and Information Center at 5801 S. Ellis Ave.; Ida Noyes Hall at 1212 E. 59th St.

BIKING
We’re big on bikes here at UChicago. Whether it’s between your classes or peddling along Chicago’s nearly 19 miles of picturesque bike paths on Lake Michigan, we encourage you to use a bike—just don’t forget to lock up!

DIVVY
The easiest way to rent a bike is through Divvy, a city-wide bike sharing program run by the Chicago Department of Transportation. Divvy has over 3,000 bikes and 300 stations throughout Chicago, including 6 in Hyde Park and 8 more planned for 2015. Bikes can be rented from and returned to any station in system, creating an endless network of start and end points. Please refer to our “Divvy: Campus Bike Sharing” Campus Visitor Guide for more information.

We can't tell you what to do, but we can strongly recommend checking out these campus hotspots. They're among the University of Chicago's most photoworthy sites, ranging from skyward towers to underground robotic retrieval systems. Each of them play a special role on campus, and getting a true taste of The University of Chicago requires visiting at least a few on the list.

ACADEMIC BUILDINGS

JOE AND RIKA MANSUETO LIBRARY
1100 E. 57th St. (at S. Ellis Ave.)
mansueto.lib.uchicago.edu

Dubbed “the library of the future” by Wired Magazine, Mansueto is a glass dome (or an igloo, depending on the season) with a study space above ground and room for 3.5 million volumes of books below, all retrievable by giant robotic cranes—no, seriously. The dome is made of 671 rectangular glass panels, none of which are the same size. Fun fact: a scene from the 2014 sci-fi action film Divergent was filmed inside what students have nicknamed “egg at the Reg.”

TIP: It’s hard to miss artist Henry Moore’s 12-foot bronze sculpture called “Nuclear Energy” just outside Mansueto. It commemorates the creation of the first controlled, self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction, achieved by UChicago scientist Enrico Fermi and his team, as part of the Manhattan Project. The sculpture stands on the grounds of the University’s old Stagg Field, under which the experiment took place in 1942.

HARPER READING ROOM
Harper Memorial Library, 3rd Floor
1116 E. 59th St.

The Harry Potter-esque reading room of Harper Memorial Library is home to the incredible Gothic architecture common to UChicago’s campus. Although it no longer functions as a library, this popular site doubles as a cozy study spot and refueling zone for many. While it has recently been renamed the Arley D. Cathey Learning Center, fear not. It is still the stately Gothic space it always was.

FURTHER SIGHTSEEING

THE MIDWAY
South of campus between 59th and 60th streets

The Midway Plaisance was a central part of the World’s Columbian Exposition of 1893, where it was the site of the world’s first Ferris wheel. A one-mile-long park stretching between Washington and Jackson Parks, the Midway is a Frisbee field, a Quidditch pitch, an ice rink, a sunning spot, and a grassy piece of Chicago history.

CHICAGO BOOTH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS HARPER CENTER
5807 S. Woodlawn Ave. (at E. 58th St.)

Through the use of limestone, Gothic arches, and an internal quadrangle, architect Rafael Viñoly echoed campus in the design of the Charles M. Harper Center. This masterpiece is nestled comfortably between the neighboring Frank Lloyd Wright designed Robie House and the soaring tower of Rockefeller Chapel across the street. Make sure to check out the winter garden. This open, naturally-lit community space is to Booth’s Harper Center as the quadrangle is to campus!

Before discontinuing collegiate athletics from 1946 to 1969, the University of Chicago was known to field one of the nation's top football teams. Today, the Maroons continue the legacy of athletic excellence with 19 NCAA Division III varsity teams, 32 intramural sports, 37 club sports, and state of the art training facilities across campus.

RECREATION FACILITIES

GERALD RATNER ATHLETICS CENTER
5530 S. Ellis Ave. (at E. 55th St.)
Ratner Athletics Center is home to UChicago Athletics. The 150,000 square foot facility boasts an Olympic-size pool, numerous indoor courts, a 1,700 seater competition gym, cardiovascular and weight training equipment, dance rooms, and the University's Athletic Hall of Fame. All students have free membership; staff and faculty pay a small fee.

DID YOU KNOW? Ratner is home to the first ever Heisman Trophy, awarded to UChicago's Jay Berwanger.

HENRY CROWN FIELD HOUSE
5550 S. University Ave. (at E. 56th St.)
Constructed in 1932, Henry Crown Field House, a popular campus recreation center, offers an indoor track, punching bags, squash courts, and batting cages, as well as standard cardio and exercise equipment. Students can enjoy these amenities for free, while memberships for faculty and staff can be purchased for a modest price. Visitors can purchase $15 guest passes.

AMOS ALONZO STAGG FIELD
E. 56th St. (at S. Drexel Ave.)
Named in honor of the University's first athletic director, Stagg Field is home to The University of Chicago's football, softball, and soccer teams. This complex not only has grass fields, but also contains a 1,650 seater turf venue that lies just East of Ratner Athletic Center. Stagg Field also hosts intramural sports for the entire University community.

DID YOU KNOW? Amos Alonzo Stagg served as the head coach of the University of Chicago football, basketball, and baseball teams. He is also credited with inventing such staples of football as the varsity letter, the linebacker position, and padded goal posts.

CAMPUS SOUTH ATHLETIC FIELD
E. 61st St. (at S. Woodlawn Ave.)
Constructed in 2014, Campus South Athletic Field accommodates intramural and club sports, and serves as a new practice venue for varsity soccer and football. It features lighting banks for evening events, a synthetic turf field, bleacher seating, and an additional warm-up area to the East.

J. KYLE ANDERSON FIELD
E. 55th St. and S. Drexel Ave.
Forget the Cubs and the White Sox, catch the Chicago Maroons at Anderson field! Men's baseball uses Anderson for their home games in the Spring Quarter.

PARKS

JACKSON PARK
This 500-acre park, nestled between UChicago and Lake Michigan, was once the grounds for the World's Colombian Exposition of 1893. These days, all that remains is Chicago's second most attended cultural attraction, the Museum of Science and Industry. The park is also a great place for birding with over 250 avian species!

WASHINGTON PARK
To the west of campus lies Washington Park, a 372-acre green space which hosts numerous festivals, a wetland lagoon, and the largest 16-inch softball league in Chicago—34 teams play on 13 diamonds. The park is also home to the DuSable Museum of African American History.

MIDWAY PLAISANCE
The Midway, originally intended to be a Venetian style canal linking Lake Michigan with Washington Park, is today a green expanse where students can relax on sunny days, play intramural sports against other houses, and throw snowballs in the winter.

INTERNET ACCESS

Need to tweet, browse, navigate, or search? Not to worry, options for wireless internet are available across the UChicago campus.

For Students, Faculty, and Staff
From a computer you will be prompted to enter your CNetID in a secure log-in window. Or you can visit wireless-ucsecure.uchicago.edu to get started.

UChicago-Guest Network
Our Guest Network provides internet access to temporary visitors who have a GuestID provided for them by a faculty or staff member (also known as a sponsor) or who are visiting for library research. Sponsors, visit uchicago-guest.uchicago.edu to request an instant guest ID and password for your guests. Those conducting library research can visit the Regenstein Library front desk. Please note that the Guest Network is not secure—browse at your own risk!

Contact IT Services at itservices@uchicago.edu or 773.702.5800.

The Administration Building's Information Center at 5801 S. Ellis Ave., Suite 120, is able to sponsor visiting unaffiliated guests.
